October has been an exciting month. We have been working on a business plan to start the American English Institute at Mae Rim, Thailand.

We also had our first short-term worker joining us on October 17th. His name is Amoun Vang. He helped us to develop our communication materials.

Our second short-term worker joined us on October 31st. Her name is Ger Yang. She will be teaching English to our middle and high school Hmong students at Huai Niam Youth Center for eight days.

Learning Women's Role in Life

There is a Hmong saying that the "best teacher is the teacher at home." Hmong women around the world are gifted with great opportunities to be teachers every day. We have many occasions to teach those around us in the work place, at home, in the community. Many times, we miss the opportunity to share a thought, an idea, words of encouragement, support for a vision, or just a kind word.

The world believes that teaching in formal settings is the most effective way of teaching someone a skill or knowledge. Teaching in formal settings has its place in our life. Yet, teaching at home is also a way to pass on skills and knowledge.

This kind of learning is usually the beginning of finding skills and knowledge for our purpose in life.

Join us in Thailand to share your skills with Hmong women and children so they can expand their abilities and teach others what they have learned. You may even gain some knowledge about your purpose in life as a servant too.

Come to join us as a short or long-term worker. We welcome you to join us in living life to the fullest by teaching others your life experiences and knowledge and impacting others for their lifetime.
